Thank you for taking the time to learn more about the Bridge.
A NOTE FROM OUR EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

HAVE FAITH.

Webster’s Dictionary defines faith as a “firm belief in something for which there is no proof.” Our work here at the Bridge tests our faith a great deal. We frequently feel as though we are walking through a long tunnel, not knowing if we are heading in the right direction. Then without warning, we are enlightened and our path becomes clear. Sometimes this enlightenment is a simple note written by a girl in one of our residential programs, or the kind remarks of a community member about our services, or a parent at our Family Resource Center telling us that one of our programs helped him or her become a better parent.

Other times our path is enlightened by the brightness of a life saved; a young man in our independent living program who stopped using drugs and is now enrolled in a trade program; or one of our counseling clients who asks for our help in treating her depression, ending a long pattern of self-destructive behavior.

Our definition of faith differs from Webster’s in that we have “proof.” I am frequently reminded to ‘have faith’ as I witness our mission touching the lives of more than 11,000 children, adults, and families each year.

Having faith in our mission, each other, the people we serve, our donors, and our community volunteers inspires us. Thank you all so much for having faith in the Bridge and lighting our path with your generous support.

“I am frequently reminded to ‘have faith’ as I witness our mission touching the lives of more than 11,000 children, adults, and families each year.”
Nationally, we are witnessing a powerful, rising tide of teen leadership, and here in West Hartford we are seeing it first-hand through our Teen Center Leadership Group. For those who are just learning about the Bridge, we operate the West Hartford Teen Center, which is located in the basement of the Elmwood Community Center. Three days a week, anywhere from 30-60 high school students drop in after school to play basketball, pool, and video games, and they enjoy a safe and substance-free haven filled with supportive adults and fellow teens.

“These kids are incredible,” says Jon Merritt, Director of the Teen Center and community mentor. “I am so impressed by what they have done to grow their Leadership Group. I facilitate the basics and provide the space and staff for their work, but the group is 100% student run, student developed, and student organized. Alysha Williams is the president this year, and under her leadership I have seen a clarity of vision for their purpose. They have developed big goals, worked to meet them, and been driven by their desire to have a positive impact in the community.”

And a positive impact they have had. In addition to adding themes to their monthly Teen Nights to encourage more teens to try out the events, the Leadership Group has conducted food drives to benefit the West Hartford Food Pantry; volunteered as readers and mentors for the Baby Bees pre-school preparation program at Elmwood Community Center; and is currently working on a Little Free Library for them. Their biggest project is the re-branding of the West Hartford Teen Center itself. It will now be known as The Base (a nod to their location in the basement and their feeling that this is their home base). They have already designed a logo and organized fundraisers for the creation of t-shirts, and they hope to secure sponsors to help offset the annual cost of providing pizza and beverages for their monthly Teen Nights. We have strong community leaders in the making, and if their current civic engagement is any indication of what the future holds for these young people, we are poised to see meaningful things from them.”
DONOR PROFILE

John and Judy Bierly
Giving of Themselves to Support Children and Families

Over the years, generous community members have embraced the Bridge’s mission of helping children and families overcome life’s challenges and build fulfilling lives. John and Judy Bierly exemplify an abiding commitment to help realize our vision of serving Every family, every child, every time.

“My passion has always been around kids and families, whether through PTOs, various boards, or church,” says Judy. She had heard about the Bridge from living in the community, where she and John raised three daughters. When she saw an ad for a part-time job at the Bridge in 1993, she called her friend Ki Miller, a long-time board member and volunteer, to learn more. Judy soon became our full-time Director of Community Services and a cherished staff member for 23 years, managing communications, Tune-In to Life Week, the Children’s Charity Ball, and countless Bridge volunteers before retiring in 2016. Under her extraordinary yet low-key leadership, the gala raised more than $2.3 million in critical funding for the Bridge’s services over the years.

“The Bridge was the perfect job for me,” Judy relates. “giving me a way to support kids and families beyond my own. Margaret [Hann, the Bridge’s Executive Director] gave me the space to work independently while being fully supportive and always there for me.” Judy especially loved the West Hartford Family Newsletter, now named Every Family School Edition, which focuses on a different topic of importance to parents in each issue. “I’m still so committed to the Bridge and what it does for kids and families. It was a privilege to work for the Bridge, and I’m honored to serve on the Bridge’s board now.”

Judy and John grew up in Pennsylvania and met at Dickinson College, their alma mater which shaped them in many ways. John is a periodontist who is deeply committed to both his patients and the profession of dentistry. He and Judy have established a scholarship fund at Dickinson because of their strong belief in the importance of education and giving back. John lost his father when he was 15 and worked his way through school, but notes, “People helped along the way. When there are high expectations for you, it lifts you up. Now we’re able to help young people and happy to do so.”

Judy credits John as being her invaluable sounding board as she learned first-hand about the significant issues children and families in the community struggled with. “The Bridge’s counseling services, youth shelters, and Family Resource Center programs have really made a difference,” Judy says. “We want all kids to have caring adults in their lives.”

John notes that local solutions are the most effective, and together they have given their “time, talent, and treasure” to support the Bridge in multiple ways. John’s practice is a Platinum sponsor of the Children’s Charity Ball, where Judy remains an active committee member. John and Judy are also charter members of the Bridge Leadership Circle and donors to our Endowment Fund. Their children and grandchildren have been involved with the Bridge as well.

“In order for the Bridge to continue to succeed, we have to keep building support in the community,” says Judy. “People don’t always know the opportunities they have right here to make a difference,” adds John. “You need to know in order to be generous.” Please join them in supporting the Bridge to build a brighter future for our families and community.

The Bridge’s Planned Giving Society, Builders for the Future, honors donors who have made a bequest or other planned gift to support our future and leave a legacy for many generations to come. Joining is simple: just include us in your will and let us know you have done so. No gift is too small for permanent membership, and the impact will be deep and long-lasting.

This year we were honored to receive a generous bequest from the estate of Edward Cohen, made at the request of his daughter, long-time Bridge supporter Libby Wallace. She kindly allowed us to share her letter that accompanied the gift. It touched us deeply, reflecting the caring for community and compassion for others she learned at home. Libby wrote:

“I chose The Bridge for this bequest because I know my father would have been proud to take a small part in helping other children and families, living in Hartford in poverty, to succeed. I became aware of how much you do while teaching at King Philip Middle School in West Hartford, particularly when I taught the AIMS program, and both my husband [Ben] and I have supported your programs, in a small way, over the years. I know you will use these funds to continue to help those in need.”

She kindly allowed us to share her letter that accompanied the gift. It touched us deeply, reflecting the caring for community and compassion for others she learned at home. Libby wrote:

“My father grew up in poverty in Hartford during the 1920s and 1930s. Because his father, who sold fruit and vegetables from the back of a truck, struggled to provide adequate food and shelter for his family, both my father and his brother held a variety of jobs from a young age to contribute to their family’s support. My father saw education as his ‘way out’ of poverty, and so he studied hard, while in the Hartford Public School system, to earn grades that would allow him to go to college. He pursued his dream of college over a period of about 10 years, working throughout this time, to not only pay tuition and living expenses, but also to continue to help support his family.

“In the end, he graduated from Columbia University with both a Bachelor of Science and a Masters degree in civil engineering. In later years, he told me that he chose engineering because he fell in love with the beauty of bridges. He was the chief engineer in charge of the restoration of the Statue of Liberty, the Brooklyn Bridge, and the U.S. Capitol building, and he was considered a worldwide expert in concrete.
